A Showcase for the Most Exciting Playwrights of Our Time

Number Nhb Modern Plays features the works of renowned playwrights who are challenging conventions and sparking important conversations. From the experimental brilliance of Lucy Kirkwood to the searing social commentary of Yasmina Reza, each play in this collection represents the cutting edge of theatrical expression.

Lucy Kirkwood's "Chimerica"

Kirkwood's award-winning play explores the complex relationship between China and the West, weaving a tapestry of political intrigue, cultural clashes, and personal sacrifice. With its gripping dialogue and thought-provoking themes, "Chimerica" is a must-read for anyone interested in contemporary geopolitical issues.

Yasmina Reza's "Art"

Reza's internationally acclaimed masterpiece delves into the nature of friendship and the fragility of relationships. Set in a Parisian apartment, the play sparks a heated debate about modern art, provoking questions about value, taste, and the very essence of friendship.

Cutting-Edge Theater: Pushing Boundaries and Inspiring Minds

Number Nhb Modern Plays is not merely a collection of plays; it is a testament to the boundless possibilities of contemporary theater. These works embrace experimental forms, unconventional themes, and immersive experiences that challenge traditional notions of storytelling.

Chris Thorpe's "The Ocean at the End of the Lane"

Thorpe's magical and haunting play transports audiences to a mysterious world where childhood memories collide with the harsh realities of adulthood. With its evocative language and surreal imagery, "The Ocean at the End of the Lane" is a captivating exploration of loss, grief, and the transformative power of the imagination.

Anders Lustgarten's "If You Don't Let Us Dream, We Won't Let You Sleep"

Lustgarten's provocative and timely play challenges the systems that oppress marginalized communities. Set in a dystopian world, it confronts issues of social justice, climate change, and the fight for a better future. "If You Don't Let Us Dream, We Won't Let You Sleep" is a powerful call to action that will leave a lasting impact.
