In recent years, there has been a growing movement on college campuses across the country to combat sexual assault. This movement has been led by students who are demanding that their schools do more to prevent and respond to sexual violence.

The New Campus Anti-Rape Movement is a book that tells the story of this movement and provides a roadmap for how to create change on your own campus. The book is written by Andrea Pino, a survivor of sexual assault who has been a leading voice in the anti-rape movement. Pino shares her own story, as well as the stories of other survivors, to illustrate the need for change.

The book also provides practical advice for students who want to get involved in the anti-rape movement. Pino offers tips on how to start a campus organization, how to lobby for policy changes, and how to support survivors of sexual assault.

The New Campus Anti-Rape Movement is an essential resource for anyone who wants to end sexual assault on college campuses. The book provides a powerful call to action and a roadmap for how to create change.
