A Timeless Classic Reimagined for Saxophones

Originally composed by Charles Gounod for his opera "La Reine de Saba" (The Queen of Sheba), the "Funeral March of Marionette" has captivated audiences worldwide for generations. Its haunting melody, reminiscent of a marionette's graceful movements, has inspired countless interpretations and arrangements.

This expertly crafted saxophone quartet arrangement captures the essence of Gounod's original masterpiece while infusing it with a fresh and invigorating energy. The soaring soprano saxophone line leads the melodic charge, supported by the rich harmonies of the alto, tenor, and baritone saxophones.

Intricate Harmonies and Expressive Solos

The arrangement showcases the saxophone quartet's unique capabilities, with intricate harmonies that intertwine effortlessly. Each part has its own moment to shine, leading into expressive solos that demonstrate the musicians' virtuosity and emotional range.

The soprano saxophone takes center stage with a haunting and ethereal solo, while the alto saxophone provides a warm and supportive accompaniment. The tenor saxophone emerges with a powerful and resonant solo, adding depth and drama to the performance. Finally, the baritone saxophone anchors the ensemble with its rich and velvety tones.
